Waltham Forest Our Place

Waltham Forest has a proud history of welcoming people from all over the world.

We want every person in Waltham Forest to be proud of their differences, while feeling part of the bigger community. We want to unlock the collective power of Waltham Forest's people to build an integrated, supportive and safe community.

Our campaign, Waltham Forest, Our Place, will celebrate the amazing people and incredible community work already happening across the borough to encourage everyone to follow their shining example.

We will inspire at least 50,000 people to make a difference – from the smallest gesture of helping a neighbour, to volunteering for a cause close to their hearts.

Thank you to everyone who contributes, in whichever way they can, to their community: Waltham Forest, Our Place.

We have learned so much about each other's way of life, beliefs and backgrounds.

Students of all ages and backgrounds who wish to practise their spoken English have been welcomed at the Christ Church in Francis Road, Leyton for over eight years.

The drop-in sessions are completely free and run during school term time on Monday mornings from 9.30am and evenings from 7.30pm. Held in a welcoming space in the church lounge, the classes are particularly aimed at people whose first language is not English.

Janice, foster carer

Thirteen years ago, Janice was working as a carer in the community, helping elderly people. Then she saw a poster on a bus advertising the fact that the Council was looking for foster carers.

She has now looked after around 30 children and was named Foster Carer of the Year in 2017.

Janice says that one of the most rewarding things about being a foster parent is seeing a child she has cared for, who isn't able to return home, move onto a loving, adoptive family.

Homemade Community Café

The Homemade Community Café opened in June 2016 in Higham Hill Park. It quickly became a place for the local community to meet. It now offers activities to bring people together including storytelling, Arts & Crafts Club, children's cooking classes and Music and Movement for parents and children.

Open from 8am until 5pm, Andreea & Marius Manga, who run the café, plan to create an outdoor space at the rear, bringing live performances to Higham Hill.

'SIGNIFICANT PROGRESS' FOR CHILDREN'S SERVICES

An Ofsted inspection of children's services in Waltham Forest has found that the standard is 'Good' overall, with an 'Outstanding' rating for the impact of senior leaders and managers on social work practice with children and families.

The inspection, which took place in January and February this year, saw a team of inspectors visit the borough and speak with council staff, partners, and service users to assess the services offered. Inspectors found the services had improved significantly since the last inspection in 2015, when they were rated as 'Requires Improvement'.

"Children services staff often fail to get the huge credit they deserve but they are essential to supporting the most vulnerable children in our society."

Cllr Clare Coghill, Leader of Waltham Forest Council, said: "I am proud of the incredible progress we have made. This inspection shows the children's services workforce in Waltham Forest make a real difference in the lives of our young people.

"Children services staff often fail to get the huge credit they deserve but they are essential to supporting the most vulnerable children in our society.

"This report shows the hard work and fundamental progress all agencies have made over recent years, to ensure our children are not only safe but that they have the support and confidence they need to thrive."

The final report praises the council's leaders for making "strong progress to establish a resilient, sustainable and child-focused service [...] underpinned by strong, effective political and corporate support."

It found that the council and its partners share a "clear, ambitious vision and core values" and "multi-agency working is well developed and contributes to achieving good outcomes for children."

Last week, Sir Matthew Bourne OBE returned to Waltham Forest to unveil a Waltham Forest Heritage plaque at his old school, Roger Ascham.

The celebrated choreographer lived in Douglas Avenue, Walthamstow from the age of six, and is pictured here on stage at Walthamstow Assembly Hall in one of his first public performances.

Matthew has been creating and directing dance for over 30 years. He is an eight-time Olivier Award winner, and the only British director to have won Broadway's Tony Award for both Best Choreographer and Best Director of a Musical.

His award-winning dance-theatre company, New Adventures, has just completed a Dancer in Residence project with Roger Ascham School as part of London Borough of Culture 2019. The residency concluded with a massive performance of over 400 school children at Walthamstow Assembly Hall, back where it all started for Matthew all those years ago.

Who knows, maybe the next dance superstar has just started their career on that very stage.

From the Leader

Cllr Clare Coghill

Anyone in a position of authority is judged on how well they look after the most vulnerable people in their community, and local authorities are no exception.

Which is why I'm so pleased that Waltham Forest's Children's Services have had such a positive report from Ofsted.

Its inspectors have rated our services 'Good' overall, and 'Outstanding' for the impact senior leaders and managers working with children and families have had. In 2015, our services were rated 'Requires Improvement.' This assessment drove us on to look at every element of our service, as well as the partnerships that are essential to the safety and well-being of our young people. To have made significant progress in the four years since the last inspection in the face of unprecedented funding cuts from central government is even more impressive.

The inspectors found that children's services in Waltham Forest are "highly ambitious and aspirational for children in care and care leavers take pride in their achievements."

Our Life Chances programme is just one way in which the council helps young people make the most of opportunities and improve their lives, and it's gratifying to see our work recognised in this way.

It's an amazing achievement by our hardworking staff, whose dedication and enthusiasm help young people in Waltham Forest every day.

Another way to help young people is to offer them access to role models and so it's been wonderful to see Sir Matthew Bourne OBE back in the borough where he grew up.

Matthew's dance company, New Adventures, has been working with around 400 pupils at his former primary school, Roger Ascham, as part of London Borough of Culture 2019. Being able to attract the very best artists in their fields to Waltham Forest is one of the reasons we were so keen to become the Mayor's first London Borough of Culture, and we thank Matthew and all other artists involved this year for giving their time to help inspire the next generation of artists from Waltham Forest.

Celebrating our adult learners

Last week the Adult Learning Service held its annual Celebration of Learning Achievement.

The event saw learners, including apprentices and others who have been gaining new skills, gather to celebrate and reflect on their year.

This is an important part of our Life Chances work, giving local residents the opportunity to learn, meet new people and try new things.

The Adult Learning Service supports over 3,440 residents, with over 5,000 enrolments – which means that many stay on to do another course. Of those, 1825 residents take a course that leads to a qualification.

With a little help from our friends

The William Morris Gallery

Incredible as it seems, we are nearly a quarter of the way through our year as the Mayor's first London Borough of Culture.

Our 12 months in the spotlight have been made possible by funding from the Mayor's office, as well as the National Lottery's Heritage Fund, which awarded the borough £250,000 towards staging the year-long celebration.

It's the latest of many projects the Heritage Fund has supported in Waltham Forest. Over the past 25 years, we've received £20million from the fund towards culture and arts in the borough, including the refurbishment of the William Morris Gallery.

Cllr Clare Coghill, Leader of Waltham Forest Council, said: "Despite the financial challenges all local authorities have faced since 2010, we have worked hard to maintain our investment in culture and are very grateful to the Heritage Fund for helping support the arts in Waltham Forest. Culture helps boost local businesses, creates opportunities for our young people and inspires pride in the local community, helping to bring people together – just a few of the reasons why we were so happy to be named the Mayor's London Borough of Culture this year."

Winning women

Waltham Forest athletes Laviai Nielsen and Asha Philip have been celebrating after both won medals at the recent European Indoor Athletics Championship.

Asha, from Leyton, is a former Connaught School student and won a bronze medal after coming third in the 60m sprint.

Laviai, from Leytonstone, attended Mayville Primary school with her twin sister Lina. She won silver as part of the women's 4 x 400m relay team.

Congratulations to both!

New repairs contractor for council tenants

The borough's council tenants will find a new contractor delivering their housing repairs and maintenance from 1 April.

Morgan Sindall Property Service will provide a range of services, including day-to-day and emergency repairs, and an out of hours service.

A key part of the contract will be the creation of WalthamFUTURES, a social value initiative opening up training, work experience placements, pre-apprenticeships and employment opportunities for local residents of all ages and backgrounds.

The council and Morgan Sindall will also work together to investigate how they can use technology to help residents. For example, research will be carried out into whether a smartphone app could make the process of reporting repair issues easier and more efficient in the future.

Cllr Louise Mitchell, Cabinet Member for Housing, said: "The decision to choose Morgan Sindall Property Services was taken after a comprehensive selection process, including input from residents. The final decision to award the contract was made not just on price, but also on the quality of the service and the support they will provide."

Residents with repair or maintenance issues should still use the same contact details.

At the same time, Waltham Forest Housing has extended its other major contract with the Astons Group, covering mechanical and electrical work.

Efficiencies and improvements identified during the renegotiation process will mean a better service for tenants and greater value for money for the council.

Happy 100th Birthday, Mrs Smith!

Florence Smith, one of our residents in Mapleton Road Care Home, Chingford, celebrated her 100th birthday on 24 February. Florence has lived at the care home since July 2015.

She blew out her candles surrounded by friends, family and staff, as well as Cllr Sally Littlejohn, Mayor of Waltham Forest, who joined in the celebrations.

Originally from Edmonton, Florence came to live in Walthamstow in 1939.

Florence had two children, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, and she's always been very caring and supportive to her family and friends. During the war, she worked in an aircraft factory in Ferry Lane and subsequently had numerous jobs, including working as a home help.

Happy birthday, Florence!

We ♥ Wood Street market!

Wood Street Indoor market has been named as one of the top markets in London by Time Out.

The magazine listed it among its choice for best flea markets in the capital, writing: "There are food stalls, beauty shops, jewellery makers and more at Wood Street. What it's absolutely best at, though, is old stuff: vintage clothes, antique homeware, retro toys. There's even a football memorabilia shop."

The market is located in the former Crown Cinema building in Wood Street, Walthamstow, and has been trading since 1955.

Wood Street Indoor Market is open Tuesday-Saturday and the first Sunday of every month, 10am-5pm.

The library where the books are people

Imagine a library where instead of books, you take away the memories and experiences of a human being. That's the concept behind The Human Library Waltham Forest – presented by Bisi Oyekanmi for London Borough of Culture 2019.

Bisi has received Make it Happen Fellowship Funding to support the project and offer it throughout Waltham Forest.

The Human Library offers a place where real people are 'on loan' to users, and is designed to build communication and understanding by sharing stories that can challenge stereotypes and prejudices.

It's part of a wider initiative that was developed in Copenhagen in 2000 by Ronni Abergel, his brother Dany, and colleagues Asma Mouna and Christoffer Erichsen.

Bisi encountered a Human Library at a festival a few years ago, and had an unforgettable conversation with a woman who had recently completed treatment for cancer. Speaking intimately about their different experiences and challenges stuck with Bisi, and inspired her to introduce the idea to Waltham Forest as a way of bringing together the diverse communities here, helping to make our area more welcoming and open to all. Bisi said: 'I hope to see events forming a regular part of the libraries' programme, perhaps with themed events. I'd love to see Human Library events held during Pride Month, Black History Month, Women's Day or Ramadan. The possibilities are endless.'

Windrush to Waltham Forest

Vestry House Museum has over 80,000 photos in its archive, but only a handful that depict the lives of the Windrush generation.

Now, the local history museum for Waltham Forest is asking residents to share their images to help fill the gap in its archives.

If you or your family have photographs featuring members of the Windrush generation, Vestry House would love to make them part of the archive and museum collection to help tell the story of the borough.

The photos don't have to be professionally taken and could depict any aspect of life: celebrations, family, religion, food, sport, work or anything else.

The only rules are that the photos must:

- feature a member or members of the Windrush generation (people who arrived in the UK from the Caribbean between 1948 and 1971)
- be taken in Waltham Forest.

How to submit your photos

Please email your images to curator Ainsley Vinall ainsley.vinall@walthamforest.gov.uk with a date, location and brief description.

The Museum will get back to you with a consent form. If you can't provide digital images, the Museum can scan and return your originals.

Help us plan better childcare in Waltham Forest

Waltham Forest's population is growing and as more families live in the borough the demand for childcare places is growing.

We know that having good childcare in place is really important to families, so we want to make sure that we have enough spaces available for each type of childcare.

That's why we are asking parents/carers take part in a short survey to help us to understand whether their current childcare meets their needs and estimate future demand for places.

The information we get from this survey will help us plan the type of childcare places we will need in the future and the areas that they are needed.

We have appointed consultants, Premier Advisory Group to do some telephone interviews with parents/carers. If you'd be happy to speak to them please email Ellie.Hooper@PremierAdvisory.co.uk with your contact number and Ellie or member of her team will be in contact with you.

By taking part in a short telephone interview, you will be entered into a prize draw and have a chance to win one of 20 prizes of a £20 shopping voucher, so you could be a lucky winner too!

If you're unable to take part in a telephone interview, we'd still like to hear from you by completing an online survey on our website. We hope you will find a few minutes to complete this to help us get the information we need to establish current and future childcare needs for our Waltham Forest families.

Closing date for responses is midnight Sunday 31 March 2019.

All aboard for new studios at Lea Bridge Station

When Lea Bridge Station opened in May 2016, it provided a direct regular overground train link to Stratford and Tottenham Hale from Waltham Forest for the first time since 1968.

It soon proved popular with residents and the latest figures show that nearly 2,000 passengers use the station every day.

Since it opened, the station, which cost £12.4 million and was jointly funded by the council, Section 106 contributions and the Department for Transport's New Stations Fund, has proved a catalyst for regeneration of the Lea Bridge area. It has provided travel infrastructure for new homes in the area.

The Enjoy Waltham Forest project on Lea Bridge Road has seen significant investment in improved cycle and pedestrian routes, with work due to be completed this year.

Across the road from the station, 300 new homes are being built and the first sales off plan at Motion E10 are now available.

Tucked away down the side of the new development is a building that has been brought back to life as 18 studios for creatives.

Arbeit Studios provides secure work space for businesses including sculptors, photographers and bespoke wedding dress designers.

Hajni Semsei, Arbeit Studio Director, said: "We saw the potential that would follow from the opening of Lea Bridge Station and opened our Lea Bridge Studios in April 2016, about a month before the station.

"We are currently working with Waltham Forest Council to make sure our tenants are benefiting from the business rates reduction scheme for creatives in the borough, which is a real benefit of being the first London Borough of Culture.

"There has been such strong support from Waltham Forest Council and businesses that we are now looking at opening further studios in Leytonstone to meet the demand for creative work space in that part of the borough."

"Everyone who visits the studio is surprised at how spacious it is for the rent I'm paying and it's really convenient too.

"It has some on-site parking and as I need to transport my canvasses by car that was important but it's also just two minutes away from Lea Bridge Station and, an added bonus, just two minutes away from my Nan so I get to spend some quality time with her too.

"I find that outside is very secure and you feel safe working here. The security systems are good and there are 18 studios in the block so you never feel as if you're alone when you're at work."

The amazing view over Walthamstow Wetlands from one of the new apartments

From September this year the first residents will be moving into Blackhorse Mills, in Green Ferry Way, Walthamstow. The scheme will provide 479 apartments for rent, including 104 for key workers in the borough.

Cllr Clare Coghill, Leader of Waltham Forest Council, recently visited the site to see what progress had been made on the development.

As well as housing, Blackhorse Mills will feature 2,000 sq metres of community and commercial space, as well as open space, with 200 new trees.

Tip top ceremony

The new houses and apartments nearing completion

A new housing development offering 100 per cent affordable housing in Leyton is nearing completion.

The 'topping out' ceremony at the Stonelea and Thornebury site, took place last week, with Cllr Clare Coghill, Leader of Waltham Forest Council, joining Peabody's

Director of Development, Angela Wood, and Engie's Project Manager for Places and Communities, Lloyd Williams, to plant a tree to mark the occasion. Topping out is the completion of a building by attaching its highest feature.

The 79 new affordable homes are a partnership between Waltham Forest Council, housing provider Peabody and contractors Engie. The development is on former NHS Land at Union Close, 10 minutes' walk from Leyton station.

With funding from Waltham Forest Council and the Greater London Authority, the scheme is 100% affordable, including 36 affordable rented properties and 43 homes for shared ownership.

"This is a really exciting scheme, providing 79 new affordable homes for local people, 36 at London Affordable Rent"

Cllr Coghill, said: "This is a really exciting scheme, providing 79 new affordable homes for local people, 36 at London Affordable Rent and the rest are shared ownership properties to help residents get a first foot on the property owning ladder. These homes are designed to reduce running costs as much as possible and will help us meet our commitment to providing a decent roof over the heads of our residents."

The scheme is due to complete in autumn 2019.

Teaming up against FGM

Whipps Cross hospital hosts a cervical screening clinic

On Friday 8 March, a 37-year-old woman was sentenced to 11 years in jail after becoming the first person in the UK to be convicted of female genital mutilation (FGM). The woman was found guilty after a jury decided she had harmed her three-year-old daughter at their family home in Walthamstow in 2017.

The little girl was taken to Whipps Cross Hospital in Leytonstone where the medics treated her and alerted the police. The mother was convicted thanks to teamwork between Whipps Cross Hospital, the police, and council social workers.

FGM has been illegal in the UK since 1985. Those who undergo the procedure carry emotional, psychological and physical effects with them for the rest of their lives.

Cllr Naheed Asghar, Cabinet Member for Health and Voluntary Sector Partnerships, said: "FGM has been illegal in our country for more than 30 years. It is a barbaric and outdated practice which has no place in the 21st century. It's shocking and saddening to see young women undergo this harmful procedure and carry its horrific effects for the rest of their lives.

"This is the first conviction for FGM in the UK, but too often those who perpetrate this kind of abuse go unpunished. I'm urging everyone in the community who knows someone who is at risk of undergoing this damaging practice to report it – you could save a young girl from a life sentence."

The walk-in clinic is held on the final Monday of each month from 9am-12pm at the Perineal Clinic, Area A, Outpatients building, Whipps Cross Hospital, Leytonstone, London E11 1NR.

Specialist cervical screening clinic is helping women who've experienced FGM

At Whipps Cross Hospital in Leytonstone, a range of services is available in support of women affected by FGM, including a walk-in clinic offering mental health support and care services for FGM survivors, alongside cervical screening.

The staff at the Whipps Cross walk-in clinic are specifically trained to provide support, dignity and understanding for women who have undergone FGM.

The Consultant Obstetrician and Gynaecologist at Barts Health NHS Trust who runs the clinics, Reeba Oliver, said: "We offer a specialist service for FGM survivors, particularly those who avoid having a cervical screening test because of the fear that a vaginal examination evokes due to the psychological trauma they have experienced.

"FGM has serious health consequences that go into adulthood; there are long-term emotional, psychological and physical effects from the damage caused. I strongly encourage women in the borough to use the service where they will be treated with support, dignity and understanding."

Cervical screening can help reduce the risk of cancer and save lives. In fact, spotting and treating cervical cancer at an early stage greatly increases the chances of survival. However, vaginal examination for women who have undergone FGM can evoke fear due to the trauma they've experienced.

The cycle tracks are proposed to aid cyclists to link with existing and new cycle links and networks along key routes, and to avoid fast moving traffic on the carriageways. Priority is maintained for pedestrians when entering or crossing segregated cycle tracks from the footways. The cycle tracks will be constructed predominantly from carriageway space with minimal reductions in effective footway widths.

Each Friday, over 100 children and young people gather at Paradox Community Centre in Chingford, for a programme of dance and drama run by Marie Theodoulou.

“We get a diverse group of children from all over the area, some have learning or behavioural difficulties, some kids aren’t used to mixing with people outside their immediate school and home environment,” said Marie. “One of the things we do is celebrate the difference in each person.”

“They are becoming accredited dance coaches at the age of 16, which gives them a skill they can take forward into their lives.”

Leyton Orient Trust

Leyton Orient CEO Danny Macklin said: “As a community based club, working alongside our Community Trust, we play a year-round role in creating memorable moments to savour, remember and share.

“As an example, here at The Breyer Group Stadium we will be hosting a landmark event on Monday 27 May. Taking to the pitch to spread the anti-knife crime message will be a number of ex-Premier League stars versus UK grime artists.”

The Hornbeam Food Rescue Project

Over 30 volunteers rescue approximately 250kg of food for around 200 different people each week.

The Hornbeam Food Rescue Project redirects quality surplus food away from landfill and into people's mouths.

Every Monday, the Hornbeam café in Hoe Street opens its doors to provide space and time for the community to connect over food.

The Hornbeam People's Kitchen is a pay-what-you-can communal feast. Volunteers come together to cook in a variety of international styles.

There are also free and donation-based food stalls from which people can take surplus food, saving money while helping to waste less food. Many beneficiaries of the stalls are now involved in the project, volunteering in the kitchen, running stalls, or collecting donated food by bike.

Magic Me

Magic Me is an arts charity that brings the generations together to build a stronger, safer community.

One project, Quality Street, will see three generations of residents in Leyton take part in creative projects, events and an annual street festival. The first, in June 2019, will be led by a steering group of local people and artists to celebrate the area.

Another, Cocktails in Care Homes, at George Mason Lodge, Leytonstone, connects volunteers, usually in their 20s and 30s, with care home residents for monthly evening themed cocktail parties.

A space for young and old to meet and have fun.

Boxing4Life

In 2008, a gang fight broke out on the Avenue Road Estate in Leytonstone. A young man was stabbed to death, another critically injured with life-changing wounds. Six of the gang members involved were apprehended and sent to prison.

"Eight families were shattered in one day," said veteran community organiser Mark Rule. "It was the first time gang violence had touched our community and I had to do something."

"Boxing is a great sport for young people – we get the kids off the street, the boys and girls get their aggression out. Most importantly, they learn to be part of a team."

They learn about the values of discipline and respect.
